

I can't imagine anything worse than being on an airplane with 250 other passengers who are using their cell phones. I urge you not to approve such use. I travel frequently and use the time for reading, or preparing for meetings. It would be almost impossible to work, read, or just relax and take a short nap with people next to you talking or most likely yelling into their cell phones.